

The future with GOING TO

What are they going to do? (Was haben sie vor?)

Next week Holly's class are going to spend five days at an adventure center in Wales.

"At the adventure centre I _____ (learn) some Welsh."

On Monday you _____ (do) canoeing and archery.

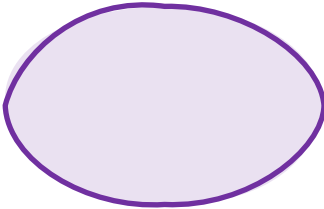

Luke _____ (play) rugby on Wednesday afternoon.

Holly _____ (ride) a horse on Thursday morning.

I hope it _____ (not rain).

On Sunday evening we _____ (arrive) at the centre.

They _____ (surprise) us with a nice dinner there.

I
You
He/she/it
We
You			(...)
they

Man verwendet das „going-to-future“ (die Zukunft mit „going to“), wenn man ausdrücken will,

- dass jemand in der Zukunft etwas vorhat/ geplant hat:
"Next week I'm going to be at the adventure center."
- dass etwas gleich passieren wird:
"Be careful, you are going to get wet. Take an umbrella."